

Typical, tiny little men with tiny little minds try to force their views of what's best for their business on the rest of us. Those of us that travel for a living need this service and we wouldn't be paying for it if we didn't need it. I love XM, it is singly the best purchase I have ever made regarding any type of paid service, cable, satellite, cell, gps unit etc. These small minded men must not succeed. They can't provide the same service to me on the same scale and yet they wish to deny me the use of such service. I can't believe this is actually getting some traction, but with the Government and lobbyist anything is fair game.

These men should be ashamed of themselves for even trying.

More power to XM
